GREEN OFFICE PRODUCTS

Announcing the world's first biodegradable ballpoint pen: Mais is made from corn rather than plastic, and, except for its ink cartridge, it will disintegrate about a year or two after it is thrown away. Mais is just one of Green Pen's many environmentally friendly stationery and office products. The Italian company carries various other types of biodegradable pens and pencils, along with paper and cardboard products made from corn, algae and seaweed bases. Green Pen also makes products from recycled material. The Selecta Ballpoint Pen, for example, is made from recycled plastic water bottles. Green Pen products can be customized or branded upon request.

MAKING NUMBERS EASY

Calling all number crunchers: Genovation has launched three new external keypads designed to ease the entry of numeric data into portable computers. Although the Micropad keypads are meant for financial professionals and portable computers, many keypad users are left-handed and use the keypads for standard desktop applications. All three Micropad keypads share features such as low power consumption and a standard dark grey case, but each uses a different interface to connect to the PC. The Micropad 631 uses a USB interface, the Micropad 632 uses a pass-through PS/2 interface (dual connector) and the Micropad 633 uses a serial interface.
